WEB SITE AUTOMATING TRANSFER OF INTELLECTUAL PROPERTY

Field Of The Invention

This invention relates to an Internet-based system for preparing the document used for performing due diligence, transfer, and recording transfer of intellectual properties pursuant to an acquisition, divestiture, merger, IPOs, change of name or the like.

Background Of The Invention

Patents, trademarks, domain names, copyrights, and licenses thereof are often the most valuable assets of a business. This is especially true for software and internet companies which have limited physical resources by design, and which are increasingly pursuing patents for their business methods. Notwithstanding these facts, it is not uncommon for commercial transactions such as, divestitures, mergers, acquisitions, IPOs, name changes or the like (collectively "transfers") to proceed either with incorrect schedules of intellectual property, or without any recordation of the transfers with the appropriate intellectual property offices around the world. When companies finally do get around to recording these transfers, it can be very difficult and expensive to root out the proper chain of transactions for recording, especially when one or more companies in the chain is out of business, its records destroyed and its officers unavailable to execute the appropriate papers. In many cases, transfers are not recorded until filing of a lawsuit to enforce the rights since recordation can provide prima facie proof of ownership or may be a necessary prerequisite.

One of the reasons transfers take place with incorrect data, or are not recorded, is that companies may own properties handled by numerous different law firms each of which is undergoing its own mergers, acquisitions and divestitures, each of which is probably using a different noncompatible trekking system for intellectual property requiring rekeying of data, and each of which may have data overlapping that of the other firms in an effort to provide as 5 complete a service as possible. In addition, third party firms and companies compete for payment of annuities and renewals on each of the properties such that companies may unwittingly transfer responsibility for handling the files.

A system automating delivery of professional services for date specific reminders is disclosed my prior U.S. Patent No. 5,895,468. A website for 10 inputting data and entering professional service orders for date specific reminders is also disclosed in my prior U.S. Patent Application Serial No.
09/237,521.

Perfectlaw™ DocPro™ by Executive Data Systems, Inc, of Coral Gables, Florida has recently begun offering electronic forms for assembly with client data 15 to automate the preparation, prosecution, issue and maintenance of patents and trademarks. These forms, lower, are not available over the web, they are software at the user's site such that they require hardware and software maintenance at the user's site

Internet-based application service providers, so called "ASPs" are known 20 and provide the advantage that hardware and software maintenance and upgrades are centrally managed by a third party and not by each user at its own site. None of these sites, however, provide intellectual property due diligence, transfer or transfer recording services.

What is desired, therefore, is a web-based system for automating the 25 preparation of documents used for recording transfer of intellectual properties worldwide. A system for generating schedules of intellectual properties for use in due diligence or transfer is also desired.

Summary Of The Invention

It is, accordingly, an object of the invention to provide a system for automating, over the internet, the transfer of intellectual property.

Another object of the invention is to provide a system for automating, over the internet, the preparation of documents used for the transfer of intellectual property.

A further object of the invention is to provide a system for automating, over the internet, the preparation of documents used to perform due diligence for the transfer of intellectual property.

The invention and its particular features and advantages will become more apparent from the following detailed description considered with reference to the accompanying drawings

Brief Description Of The Drawings

FIG. 1 is a schematic block diagram depicting a system for automating, over the internet, the transfer of intellectual properties.

FIG. 2 is a schematic block diagram depicting creation of a database of intellectual properties for transfer with the system of FIG. 1.

Detailed Description Of The Invention

It is to be understood that, although specific embodiments of the invention have been described herein in detail, such description is for purposes of illustration only and modifications may be made thereto by those skilled in the art within the scope of the invention.
